

Tobias Schulte

Life is Good

Occupation: Commercial Airline Manager

Lives in: Frankfurt, Germany

Fun facts: Finished 90+ marathons in 32 countries and 4 Ironmans; Dad and husband; Finished the Escape from Alcatraz Triathlon

About Tobias

Tobias juggles a stressful job, a family, friends and many hobbies these days. Endurance sports are his passion. In the evening and on weekends, you will find him mostly on his road bike or on the running track combined with a competition. Up to 5 times a year he runs a marathon, which he has been doing since he was 18 years old. At 36, Tobias was diagnosed as type 1. "My first thought was, Type 1? So what, let's do an Ironman!" That takes a lot of energy and training, but "thanks to Eversense, I can continue to do my sports and compete as I did before my diagnosis."

In Tobias's spare time, he also enjoys hiking in the Alps, caravan camping with his family and speaking at diabetes events. "I am always impressed to talk with other people who have type 1 diabetes and never used a CGM. I think "wow" and again, am thankful for my Eversense CGM."

On Eversense: "The last 2 1/2 years I could always rely on the Eversense glucose level readings. All my 8 sensors clearly show that it as a very reliable system. I like it so much, because I can set individual warning levels and adjust the default settings in the app, so that I get alerts if my glucose levels change abruptly. While I'm running, this means being reminded to drink or eat in time to avoid interrupting the run due to a hypo."

"The insertions of all sensors were short and painless." Tobias has used 900 adhesives so far without noticing the slightest sign of redness or any side effects, "that speaks for itself."

"Eversense has given me the highest level of security, comfort and freedom in everyday life as well as competitive sport."